American Indian Cultural District Indigenize Project Survey #IndigenizeSF

This part of the survey is to gather feedback to meaningfully engage community members in the American Indian Cultural District Indigenize project.

The AICD Indigenize Project is a placemaking and placekeeping initiative that focuses on honoring and celebrating American Indian culture, history, people, and contributions through art, pole banners, street signs, a genocide mapping project, and QR digital walking tours. This ongoing project is intended to create an interactive experience that will confront systematic erasure and expand the rich cultural heritage of San Francisco by increasing public awareness and elevating the visibility of local Native American culture and history through an Indigenous lens.

1. To elevate American Indian visibility and culture, what types of images or themes would you like to see on murals and flag pole banners?
2. What cultural themes, people, and/or animals would you like to see represented in statues, monuments, and memorials in the American Indian Cultural District?
3. To elevate American Indian voices, what sayings or messages would you like to see in artwork in the Cultural District?
4. To help us Indigenize SF (Yelamu), what are some street names you would like to see in the American Indian Cultural District?
